What's New In?

The plugin is designed to be an alternative to fancy multi-channel mixers that have the stereo width settings configured, getting you the same effect as a headphone mix. It also has the benefit of not requiring virtualization with the output going straight to the monitor speakers. Instead, the plugin provides a cross-mix concept, so the IAD and ITD are mono. They measure the depth and distance of the speakers from the user's ears based on the microphone input and cross-mix the IAD and ITD to the left and right in real-time, no matter what is the mono output. That allows for that great feeling of being in the mix when mixing or recording, and helps you concentrate on what you are doing. Installation Note: The new.zip contains the plugin and two configuration files: CANS2CONES_DLL.ini and CANS2CONES_INI. Activating the plugin does not require any additional plugins. In fact, if you choose not to activate the plugin, it can also be configured as a convolve of the left and right channels of the stereo input, so it will also work for mixing.
