A toolbox is also available to help create new tools. I have a lot of experience with Adobe's Creative Cloud photography solutions. I've used Lightroom, Creative Cloud Photography (CCP), and Aperture. I also own and use Lightroom. However, I've never used any Elements product. It's hard to compare Elements to other products as a whole. I've only used a few of the products within the Adobe lineup. For example, I've used Premiere Elements to make simple titles with text and graphic overlays. I've also used Premiere Creative Cloud for some longer video projects. Creating in Premiere Pro is straightforward - it has a lot of professional options.
